WORLD OF WARCRAFT EMOTION CODE CHEAT SHEET

Emotes (Emotion codes) are commands which make your character perform movements such as waving, coughing, dancing or pointing. They're an excellent way to convey a feeling to those around you and much quicker with more impact than typing your message in the chat window. WoW supports well over 150 different built-in emotes that can help players immerse even better into the game world especially on the Role Playing (RP) servers.

To perform an Emote, type in the chat window: /agree
This will perform the Emote and anyone around you will see you. You can also direct your Emote to an individual by selecting the person and then typing /whistle and you will whistle to that particular person. It will also automatically generate "You whistle to <person's name>."

Codes listed in bold are animated emotes.

VOICE EMOTES

Voice emotes are emotes that have actual speech files that play out when you execute them. For example, typing "/v inc" will cause your character to say "Incoming" and everyone that is near you will be able to hear that "Incoming" being played on the speakers. The following is a list of available voice emotes.

/v assist, as	/v help
/v charge	/v incoming, inc
/v cheer	/v no
/v fire	/v outofmana, oom
/v flee, run	/v raspberry, rasp
/v flirt	/v silly
/v follow, followme, fol	/v thanks, thank, thankyou
/v goodbye, bye	/v train
/v grats, congrats	/v wait
/v heal	/v yes
/v hello	/v welcome
